A Handbook of references for the deter-

Tables of Annual and Mensural Designations, &c., &c. Compiled by WILLIAM FREDER-ICK MAYERS, H.M.C.S.

Author's Preface.
Most persons whose avocations or studies are connected even remotely with Chinese subjects are wont to confess the need of a convenient manual of reference for the purpose of determining dates according to either the European or the Chinese method of computation; and a system of comparison for the names attributed to years, months, and other periods is also frequently a desideratum with translators and readers of Chinese literature. The compiler of the following tables has thought, accordingly, that their publication in a convenient form may prove useful, although much yet remains to be done for the elaboration of comparative calendars, etc. that should leave nothing to be desired. With the exception of the Cyclical Table of Years, and the Table of Solar Terms, both of which were originally compiled by Dr.
Morrison, and afterwards republished with improvements in Williams' Commercial Guide, from which (with some alteration) they are now copied, the whole of the matter assembled in the following pages is for the first time made accessible to general reference.

her in the Downs till the 6th March, when she left with a N. E. wind and carried it to the Equator, crossing on the 31st of March; experienced moderate wind till passing the Cape on the 6th of May in 39

Java Head on the 10th June, and on the had been wrecked on the Silowan Point.

Owing to the sudden striking of the vessel —then under full sail, the mate immediately before having reported 14 fathoms by the lead—they were unable to furnish themselves with provisions or even cars.
When seen they were paddling with boards taken from the bottom of the boat. On the 14th landed them at Anjer and supplied them with clothes. Came through Gaspar Strait on the 20th, and experienced rough the China sea a light S. W. wind, accompanied with squalls and heavy rain; sighted the Saddle on the 10th of July and arrived on the 13th July at Shanghai.

Lady Belmore, Br. br., 253 tons, Capt.
Foreman, left Sydney on the 1st of June, and experienced fine weather throughout the entire passage; sighted the Saddle on the 12th inst., arrived on the 14th July at Shanghai.

L'Esperanza, Br. sh. 670 tons. Capt.
Forbes, left Plymouth on the 10th of March with a N. wind, and encountered on the 12th a heavy gale from the S. W., which continued unabated till the 15th; then experienced fair winds to the Equator, which was crossed on the 1st April, and carried saw to the Cape, passing it on the 4th of May, in 40 S. Experienced strong N. winds with heavy gales till sighting Java Head

THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, TUESDAY, JULY 27, 1869.
THE BRITISH ADDRESS TO MR.
ROSS BROWN.

We publish hereunder the address presented to Mr. Ross Brown by the British Community of Shanghai (reserving the text of his reply until we have more space at our disposal), and cannot but remark upon the singular contrast which the action taken by our northern friends presents to the laissez aller style of our local politicians. It is somewhat unusual to present addresses to foreign officials, thanking them for the tone they have adopted, even when those officials be Representatives of the United States; and that the most influential community in China should have "gone out of their way" to compliment and sympathise with Mr. Brown says a good deal for the effect which our recent policy has produced upon the minds of British residents. They could scarcely have taken any step which would more thoroughly open the eyes of the Foreign office to the determined opposition which its policy has evoked, and the answer to their memorial cannot but give rise to doubts both in England and the United States whether after all there must not be something in a point of view upon which Her Majesty's Minister and that of the United States, the residents of both those and all other nationalities, the local journals, no matter how differing in other matters, the missionaries, naval and military officers, professional men, and lastly the majority employed in the very service of the Chinese Government itself, are fully agreed! When such unanimity is found there must be some strong cause for its existence. Were there any respectable minority, whether journalistic, mercantile, or official, who advocated the "peace policy" system, a belief might exist that the minority were right. But when those professing different religious creeds, those who prefer peace and those who would gain by war, those who judge the Chinese from outside contact and those who have a fair knowledge of their language and mode of thought, their legal and social systems—when these are alike united in the expression of one opinion, and that decidedly opposed to the doctrines of Earl Clarendon, the probabili-ties are overwhelming of its being correct.

The old adage that "The best way to keep peace is to be prepared for war" is strikingly true in China. The Government acts upon its teaching at home but obstinately refuses to apply it out here.
Yet it cannot be that the China trade is of no importance to the exchequer of the Empire; nor to say nothing of the employment it finds, first and last, in the way of ships, &c. to so many thousands of our working and middle classes at home. But the foreign office has been persuaded that the policy so successfully pursued in other quarters—that of "masterly inaction"— will meet with similar success out here.
But inaction is, in China, synonymous with retrogression. Our policy in China may be compared with the progress of a boat against a strong current —once lie on your oars and you not merely cease to progress but you are immediately carried backwards.
